FDR-Sponsored $1,000 Club Flayed by Gov. Dewey

Secret Offer Called Brazen And Dishonest

Baltimore Gives Him Greal Welcome

By GARDNER BRIDGE

EN ROUTE WITH DEWEY, Nov. 3.—In a hotly-worded reply to President Roosevelt's self-acknowledged membership in the $1,000 club, Governor Thomas E. Dewey declared tonight he had learned the society offers something more than "special privilege."

Something, he said, that it "does not dare put in writing."

The Republican presidential nominee, in prepared excerpts for a speech in Wilkes-Barre, Pa., denounced what he called the "very brazenness" of the "most corrupt" ever made by any political party and said:

FDR Sponsored Club

"Mr. Roosevelt admitted last Tuesday that it was he himself who thought up the idea of the notorious One Thousand Club. This is the organization which offers in writing 'special privilege' and a voice 'in the formulation of administration policies' together with a chance to visit with the president on Thursday afternoons—all for one thousand dollars."

"I now have another letter, sent out by Mr. Roosevelt's 'special privilege' in government society. It was written on the stationery of the Democratic National Committee to select list in Kansas and tells us a little more about this $1,000 Club. It ends up by saying 'membership in this group will be a badge of distinction forever. There are other advantages which I can explain to you when we meet. Instant action is necessary.'"

Without identifying the author of the letter, he went on to say:

"Something More Offered"

"Mr. Roosevelt's club offers in writing to give 'special privilege' to a select group of men who can afford a thousand dollars for a campaign contribution. Then it offers something more—something it doesn't dare put in writing."

Declaring that "we can only guess that that is," Dewey said:

"Has this special privilege to do with war contracts? or is it special concessions on income taxes? or is it Mr. Roosevelt's club peddling special influence with the War Labor Board or the National Relations Board?"

"One thing I do know, however," he added. "We are not fighting a war for freedom in order to have a government of special privilege by a select few contributors or for the Communists."

The New York governor, traveling through Pennsylvania in what some of his aides called a "mopping up" campaign for that state's thirty-five electoral votes, declared it is time to bring an end to government by secret deals."

"We want no secret deals either for special influence in the government or home or in our foreign policy abroad."

Dewey, who earlier in the day had received a rousing reception during a quickly arranged visit to Baltimore, planned to motor from Wilkes-Barre to Scranton before boarding his special train again for an overnight ride to Albany.

Dewey was cheered along a torch parade in Wilkes-Barre from the railroad station to Kingston Armory. There he found a crowd estimated by state police commissioner C. M. Wilhelm at 15,000 overflowing the armory into an adjacent ball park, all noisy and flag-waving.

Hillman Boast

The New York governor's mention of Sidney Hillman's name as among the "higher bidders" for the Democratic party brought loud boos.

Calling for an end of the new deal "secrecy" both in domestic and foreign affairs, Dewey declared it has been left to the prime minister of England to tell us what has happened "at Mr. Roosevelt's conferences with Premier Stalin and other Allied leaders."

It was the Republican presidential candidate's third sortie into Pennsylvania.

Exit James L. Fly: New Deal "Trouble Shooter" Will Quit Radio Commission November 15

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2 (P)—James L. Fly, storm center of controversies over radio policy, is stepping out as chairman of the Federal Communications Commission.

He announced today that he has resigned effective Nov. 15 and will practice law in New York. William Benton of Benton and Bowles, advertising agency is understood to be seeking Fly's aid in establishing a proposed "subscription" radio service.

Fly's resignation had been rumored a long time. Speculation on a successor has centered on Paul Porter, publicity director for the Democratic National Committee, J. Leonard Reinsch, radio director for the committee, also has been mentioned.

With Fly's departure there will be two vacancies on the seven-member FCC. No successor has yet been named to T. A. M. Craven who left June 30 to enter the radio business.

A six-foot, three-inch Texan, Fly has been chairman of the FCC since September, 1939. He is an Annapolis (1920) and Harvard Law School (1926) graduate who first entered the government in the Hoover administration as a special assistant to the attorney general.

Under President Roosevelt's administration Fly became known as a New Deal "trouble shooter." Fly was TVA general counsel when appointed FCC chairman.

As head of the FCC, Fly became embroiled in controversy with some elements in the radio industry. There were charges, which he denied, that he wanted to "dictate" types of programs.

Currently, the FCC is under investigation by a special House committee. Rep. Cox (D-Ga.) proposed the investigation.

Russian Troops Now 23 Miles From Budapest

Siegfried Line Again Attacked In Major Drive

LONDON, Friday, Nov. 3 (P)—Russian troops fought their way to within twenty-three miles south of the Hungarian capital of Budapest yesterday, swiftly rolling back a shattered foe on a sixty-mile front in their drive aimed at knocking out the last big Axis satellite, Moscow announced last night.

Northeast of Budapest other Soviet forces cleared the enemy from a sixty-mile section of the east bank of the Middle Tisza river on a front between Csap on the Czechoslovakian border down to Polgar, ninety-three miles from the imperiled capital, the Moscow bulletin said.

Flash of Guns Seen

The flash of the battle on the plain outside Hungary's first city and major Nazi arsenal was visible by night in Budapest, and the roar of approaching guns also could be heard, dispatches said.

German and other European broadcasts last night and early today strengthened a brief that Russian troops might smash into Budapest or invest the city over the weekend. DNB, German news agency said four strong Soviet armored columns were converging on the capital and that it had been "impossible" for Axis troops to halt them.

The Soviet communists announced seizure of sixty more towns and villages and the capture on Wednesday alone of 2,000 prisoners, including Col. Gen. Janus Vorozev, former Hungarian chief of staff. This made a total of 7,518 German and Hungarian prisoners in the first three days of the offensive which began last Monday.

Red Columns Advancing

Russian columns were attacking northward toward Budapest on a wide front between the Danube and Tisza rivers, and in one area advancing at a mile-an-hour clip.

On the west flank along the Danube the communists announced the fall of Domod rail station, twenty-three miles south of Budapest.

A midnight Soviet supplement said the Germans, desperately trying to stop the steamroller drive, were "flinging in fresh forces straight from the march." During the day, it said, more than 2,000 enemy troops were killed and fifty-eight tanks and mobile guns knocked out.

The Soviet midnight bulletin made a brief reference to the deadlocked East Prussian front, saying 200 Germans were killed in repulsing a Nazi counterattack south of Goldap.

Russian bombers were said to have sunk nine German transports and damaged two in raids on Liepaja and other German-held Baltic ports. The attack on German transports at Liepaja suggested a German withdrawal in Western Latvia where a large number of enemy troops have been pocketed.

Roosevelt Says Congress Will Work With Him

Charges GOP Builds Party Spite Fence

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2 (P)—President Roosevelt declared tonight assertions that Congress will cooperate only with a Republican president constitute "a threat to build a party spite fence between us and the peace."

In a speech prepared for radio delivery under sponsorship of the Democratic National Committee, the president proposed "continuance of the teamwork that we have demonstrated in this war." He said that by carrying forward plans already made the nation can:

"Provide employment for our veterans and our war workers—we can achieve an orderly reconversion."

"Above all, we can avoid another false book like that which burst in 1929 and a dismal collapse like that of 1930 to 1933."

No Cleveland Speech

Mr. Roosevelt said he was disappointed that work in Washington prevented him from speaking in Cleveland or Detroit but said "as I told the American people when I became president I follow the principle of first things first; and this war comes first."

The president said the presidential campaign "has been marred by even more than the usual crop of whisperings and rumors" and declared "I do not propose to answer in kind."

"As we approach election day, more wicked charges may be made with the hope that someone or somebody will gain momentary advantage."

"Hysterical, last minute accusations or sensational revelations, are trumped up in an attempt to panic the people on election day."

Roosevelt Sees Threat

Mr. Roosevelt said the public has been told that unless the Republican presidential choice is elected "the Congress will not co-operate in peace. This is a threat to build a party spite fence between us and the peace."

He declared Congress agreed with his administration's foreign policy when it passed resolutions pledging the nation to co-operation in a world peace organization.

The president, speaking from the White House before his departure later this week on the last political trip of the campaign, reviewed briefly the military developments of recent days and said "our success has been the result of planning and organization and building."

Sees Miraculous Future

Calling for what he termed a continuing national teamwork, the president said he looks forward "to an era of expansion and production and employment—to new industries and increased security."

"I look forward to millions of new homes, fit for decent living; to new low-priced automobiles; new highways; new airplanes and airports; to television; and miraculous new inventions and discoveries, made during this war, which will be adapted to the peacetime uses of a peace loving people."

Outlines Task Ahead

Mr. Roosevelt outlined the huge task still lying ahead in the war—"all the long tough miles to Berlin, all the major landings yet to be made in the Pacific"—and declared delays in performing the job at home will mean prolonging the war and increasing the toll of lives.

"All of our able commanders in the field know this and so do our soldiers and sailors. And we at home must never forget it."

He paid tribute to the war job done by the women of the nation, saying they are greatly responsible for the fact that military supplies and munitions have gone through on time.

Reviewing his conversations with statesmen "of the smaller nations as well as our larger Allies," the president declared:

Stresses His Experience

Allies Delayed in Italy: American Casualties Now 90,000; Mud, Fresh Troops Halt Advance

ROME, Nov. 2 (P)—American troops alone have suffered at least 90,000 casualties in the fourteen-month-old Italian campaign and there still is no sign the Germans are pulling out of the war-torn country, Gen. Sir Harold Alexander, Allied ground commander, said today.

"This apparently represented an increase of nearly 8,000 in the United States casualty toll in Italy since the Sept. 21 figure by Secretary Stimson."

Allied Assault Halted

In acknowledging that the Allied assault on the enemy's Gothic line had come to an almost complete halt in the mud of the Po valley and the peaks of the Apennine mountains, Gen. Alexander said "I can't tell how long it will take to drive them out, but it will be done."

The Germans have continued to send reinforcements into Italy, despite their reverses on the eastern and western fronts, the Allied commander disclosed. He admitted puzzlement at this enemy strategy, pointing out that Hitler already had suffered 194,000 casualties in Italy including 34,000 killed and 104,000 wounded.

Strategy Changed

Gen. Alexander said that the original plan for attacking the Gothic line had had to be altered because of the withdrawal of all French divisions and some American divisions for the invasion of Southern France.

"Only those who are responsible for the conduct of the war as a whole can decide what is best for the strategy as a whole," he said, "and we have to carry out our tasks with what we are given."

"At no time during the Italian campaign have we had any but a slight superiority in numbers."

Though declining to guess when the Italian fighting would end, Gen. Alexander said he could not imagine the war in Europe continuing beyond 1945.

Returns for Troops

LONDON, Nov. 2 (P)—American troops will hear results of the presidential election all next Tuesday night through broadcasts by the American forces network of the European theater of operations. The British Broadcasting Corporation will broadcast returns regularly Wednesday.

Dr. George Gallup's American institute of public opinion reports Dewey leading as of last week in twenty-two states with 255 electoral votes and Roosevelt ahead in twenty-one states with 206 electoral votes. (It takes 266 to win). The remaining five states, with seventy electoral votes, are listed as "on the line."

In the fourth poll, a Newsweek magazine survey representing state-by-state estimates of 118 political writers, Roosevelt is found leading in twenty-seven states with 249 electoral votes and Dewey in twenty states with 247 electoral votes. Newsweek regards Pennsylvania (35 electoral votes) as the state of decision.

Fortune does not break down its poll by states. Here is what the other three find in what they consider "pivotal" states (electoral votes in parentheses):

All-Time Record Set by Yanks in Central Germany

69 U. S. Planes Reported Lost

By ROBERT EUNSON

LONDON, Friday, Nov. 3 (P)—American fliers destroyed 208 German planes yesterday when the Luftwaffe made its long-promised re-appearance and was whipped in one of the great all-time aerial battles—a savage, whirlwind dogfight of 2,400 United States and Nazi planes over Merseburg in Central Germany.

Following quickly on this decisive Allied triumph more than 1,000 RAF bombers roared out over Western Germany after nightfall and delivered one of their heaviest blows at Dusseldorf, Rhineland industrial city behind the western front.

Attack Nazi Oil Plant

In the huge daylight raid, 1,000 American heavy bombers blasted the Leuna synthetic oil plant at Merseburg and rail yards at Bellefeld and Rheine. Yank fliers in 900 escorting Mustangs and Thunderbolts set a new fighter record of 155 planes destroyed in the air and on the ground. Another fighter record of 130 shot down and a new combination bomber-fighter record—208—in planes destroyed this year during one day were compiled.

Officials reported that, of the 2,000 American planes, forty-one bombers and twenty-eight fighters failed to return. The pilots flew through the heaviest flak they have encountered in months—"It rattled like hail" on the wings and fuselage, one pilot said—and met upwards of 500 German fighters, including many green and black jet planes which, fliers said, "climbed straight up off the ground."

Surpass Previous Record

In shooting down the 130 Nazis, the American fighter pilots surpassed the previous mark of 117 kills in aerial combat. They were opposed by many jet planes, four of which officially were reported shot down.

The Americans, apparently anticipating fierce opposition, sent out the second largest fighter escort ever dispatched by the Eighth air force to shepherd the 1,100 bombers to their targets. The Germans, making a major attempt to save the synthetic oil plant at Merseburg, ordered up their biggest force of interceptors against the Americans over that sector.

Nazi Fliers Attack

The heavy bombers were attacked by waves of jet-propelled planes as they thundered over the oil plant. The Nazi fliers slashed at the United States formations from the rear and sides during the bombing runs.

Returning bomber crews reported that the jet propelled planes also employed new tactics, rising from the ground and attacking the heavy planes from underneath where the Fortresses and Liberators have the least fire power. Previously, the jets only had swooped down from above or in from the side.

Today's large-scale appearance of the Luftwaffe was the first time that the Germans had come up in numbers to fight since Oct. 7. The German fliers—many of them apparently newly trained—were not matching for the Americans. Officials saying our fighter losses were expected to be light, did not report how many United States bombers were downed.

11-Inch Shell Drops near Patton

WITH THE UNITED STATES THIRD ARMY, FRANCE, Nov. 2 (P)—One of the Germans' eleven-inch shells recently landed thirty yards across the street from a house in which Lt. Gen. George S. Patton, commander of the United States Third Army, was taking shelter. Patton escaped injury, although a military policeman outside was injured and windows were knocked out.

After assuring himself that the injured soldier had received first aid, Patton went to the smashed home across the street and personally helped to dig out a wounded Frenchman and his elderly father.

Then, with the bombardment still going on, Patton went to a neighboring house where several Frenchmen were taking shelter. He reassured them and passed around cigarettes before leaving.

Advances of War Medicine Save Thousands of Wounded Americans

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE

NEW YORK, Nov. 2 (P)—Sixty thousand American soldiers are alive who would have died since Pearl Harbor if they had been wounded in World War One.

An additional 9,000, who would not have died, but who would have been maimed, legless or otherwise maimed wrecks, are whole men walking, talking and leading their normal lives.

These reports of the advances of war medicine were given today by Major General Norman T. Kirk, surgeon general of the army, in a report to the Association of Military Surgeons of the United States.

The men whose bodies are whole were made so by surgical techniques that are new or improved over the World War One days. The repairs are to arms, legs, and most bones including face, head and jaws. Nerve surgery especially has saved many from a life of shriveled and twisted muscles.

Twelve thousand wounded men a week, equivalent to fifty-two divisions a year, are being returned to fighting condition from army hospitals in the United States alone.

War Cuts Down on Birds and Beasts

NEW ORLEANS — Doctors are having trouble getting goldfish. Canaries are having trouble getting seed. And practical folks are finding that horned toads, baby alligators and white mice, all stocks in their trade, have become peacetime memories.

The demand for pets, says Charles Dusse, owner of New Orleans' largest pet-shop, far exceeds the supply. It's another result of war. Even dogs and cats are hard to get.

Take goldfish, for example. Some people don't care for them, but many doctors do. A bowl in the waiting room soothes fidgety patients. But the medicos these days must be content with a few restful potted plants.

Manpower shortage is the explanation. The two largest goldfish hatcheries in the country are at Martinsville, Ind., and Stoutland, Mo. Local dealers say the hatcheries cannot fill orders because they lack adequate help.

Not a day passes that some sailor or soldier doesn't enter a pet shop and put in a bid for a horned toad. It's a fine object to slip into another fellow's bed. But dealers complain that the men in Texas, who hitherto had furnished an adequate amount of the reptiles, all have gone to war.

Canaries are as difficult to get as a new icebox and the problem of feeding them is troublesome, too. Before the war the greatest source of supply was Germany and in this country people raised them in their kitchens for pin-money. Now Ger-

Allied success in clearing Schelde estuary approaches to Antwerp of all substantial enemy resistance coupled with the forward surge of American First army troops in Hurtgen forest southeast of captured Aachen could herald the opening of the next major phase of the battle of the Siegfried line.

There was no definite indication of that in preliminary accounts from the front. They told of American seizure in surprise operations of villages close to the eastern edge of the forest.

Troops Close to Rhine

At that point, in Hurtgen woods, Allied troops stand closer to the Rhine than at any other except in the Nijmegen-Arnhem sector to the north. The span of the river between Cologne and Bonn to the south, flanked on both sides by an intricate network of railroads, highways and power lines, is less than thirty miles from American positions in the forest.

The scene of operations suggests impending First army efforts to outflank from the south the important road junction town of Duren, guarding the direct approach to Cologne from the southwest. First army advance lines have been poised for many days in the northeastern edge of Hurtgen forest directly west of the town.

May Take Cologne

Duren's capture or investment would seem to be the next imperative step if an immediate advance on bomb blasted Cologne is in prospect. Isolating Duren and the whole northern end of the Siegfried line virtually has been assured by concerted British and Canadian army operations.

Nazi recognition of the importance to the Allies of Antwerp and its undamaged port facilities and the road, rail and canal network south of the Maas has been obvious in the bitter-end defense the Germans have put up. The battle has been lost, Berlin admits, however, and with still time before the depth of winter comes for General Eisenhower to build upon that victory.

Surrender of the Nazi commander and his troops in pockets south of the Schelde estuary virtually clears the south bank of the foe. Combined British and Canadian land and amphibious attacks on Walcheren island north of the waterway means its complete occupation within hours or days at most. Retired Forest Fire Warden Is Doing Fine Job

By TRUDIE ALLEN
ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 2 (AP)—When the timber fire season breaks out with thirteen blazes in three days, Maryland's forest fire fighters don't spring up from a long siesta, they keep right on doing their job concentrating on fires.

They've been trying hard since the spring fire season, to teach the public how to prevent disastrous fires, and in most cases apparently succeeding.

For example, in the lower part of Charles county, forty or fifty fires used to occur each year. Then Otis Crismond of Marbury who had retired as a forest warden, consented to become a patrolman. He visited every household in the section, preaching fire prevention.

Fewer Fires Now
The year after he began his tours, there were only two fires in the lower county and the next year, just one.

"Ninety-eight per cent of the fires in Maryland can be eliminated by proper education and co-operation from the people," H. C. Buckingham maintains.

He is the assistant state forester in charge of fire control, and Crismond is his favorite proof that he's right. Buckingham says ninety-eight per cent of all fires are the result of carelessness or ignorance.

The state department of forests and parks does not have a large enough staff to help citizens burn brush or trash, but it has plenty of advice on how it should be done and is ever ready and willing to give it.

Others Like Crismond
There are patrolmen like Crismond in each of the four fire districts of the state. When they aren't battling flames, they are teaching people how to prevent fires that destroy timber or burn over land.

The patrolmen drive pumper trucks which carry 1,000 gallons of water. They tour the districts, prepared to put out a fire and eager to prevent any necessity for putting out a fire.

land, patrolmen, wardens, supervisors and helpers keep eagle eyes on Frederick, Garrett, Washington and Allegany counties. The other districts are the five Southern Maryland counties of Anne Arundel, Prince George's, Calvert, St. Mary's and Charles, plus Howard and Montgomery counties, with headquarters in Laurel.

Eastern Shore Setup
The Eastern shore, including Somerset, Wicomico, Worcester, Dorchester, Caroline, and Talbot with headquarters at Salisbury; and Northern Maryland, including Cecil, Queen Anne's, Carroll, Kent, Baltimore and Harford counties operating out of Bel Air.

Work of the forestry men varies from district to district, depending upon the needs of the inhabitants. In Western Maryland, emphasis is on state forest administrative work, particularly recreation areas.

In Southern Maryland, the men spend most of the between-fire season, marking timber for private owners, and in the other two districts, many kinds of assistance to woodland owners occupies the Forestry department employees.

The thirty-two fire towers operated by the state are manned to a great extent by women. The women are good spotters, Buckingham thinks.

There is another tower on the Maryland-Delaware line, called the interstate tower, which the two states take turns manning, for two year periods.

Another precaution which the Forestry department inaugurated last year are their "rural fire plus"—manmade water holes.

Near a stream or damp bit of ground, the foresters sink a well four or eight feet deep in which the water stands, ready to be used in fire fighting.

Death-Bed Conversion

IN THE COURSE of his Chicago address, Mr. Roosevelt promised jobs for 60,000,000 people during the post-war period. And he attempted to bolster this glittering assurance with the following statements of conviction:

"I believe in free enterprise—and always have."
"I believe in the profit system—and always have."
"I believe that private enterprise can give full employment to our people."

Glad as they will be to find such sentiments voiced in any circle, most business men will incline to the view that Mr. Roosevelt is a bit late—that his change of front, indeed, too closely resembles a case of death-bed conversion.

If Mr. Roosevelt should be elected to a fourth term, his closest adviser would be Sidney Hillman. Does anyone believe that Hillman is in favor of private enterprise? Does anyone believe that Earl Browder, who stands right behind Hillman, favors private enterprise?

For years, Mr. Roosevelt and his strange coterie of New Deal stooges have sarcastically belittled business and inveighed against "economic royalists" and "princes of privilege," lumping virtually all business men and industrialists together under those heads.

For years, the Roosevelt policy has been that of discouraging business initiative through a studied system of punitive taxation.

For years, business and industrial ownership has been penalized by administration support of union racketeers and by prejudicial enforcement of one-sided labor legislation. For years, the snooping tactics of government bureaucracy have imposed a prohibitive burden upon the nation's entire economic machine.

Under such circumstances, Mr. Roosevelt can scarcely expect to gain the support of business and win the confidence of American industry by making a campaign compromise which so obviously exemplifies mere electoral expediency.

Mr. Roosevelt promised jobs in 1932. In 1940, when the war boom started—and when Mr. Roosevelt had been boondoggling around in Washington for seven years—there still were 10,000,000 unemployed.

If 60,000,000 jobs are attainable in the postwar period, they will stand a much better chance of being realized through the election of Thomas E. Dewey, a man whose loyalty to the American system of doing business has not been cast in doubt by official acts, reckless phrases or radical affiliations.

Governor Dewey has the confidence of American business and industry. His administration can be counted upon to provide the economic impetus needed for a wholesome revitalization of the country's economic structure.

Business men are foolish to accept a New Deal Trojan horse, even though cunningly decorated by Mr. Roosevelt, when it can have the honest and sincere co-operation of a leader who is a real friend of free American enterprise.

A Worthy Candidate For a Governorship

THE CUMBERLAND NEWS can heartily commend to its West Virginia readers the candidacy of Daniel Boone Dawson, Republican nominee for the governorship of their state, thrice mayor of the capital city of Charleston, in which position he has achieved a brilliant record.

Dawson is a native of Sissonville, Kanawha county, where he was born September 12, 1897. His first schooling was in that town. Later he moved to Charleston, where he was graduated from high school in 1917. He immediately went into the army and served until the World War I armistice. He had already decided to become a lawyer and on his return from the service he went to work in the Logan county coal fields to earn money to finance his education. He was later graduated from Washington and Lee university with a law degree and returned to Charleston to practice his profession. Thus, it is seen, he is a self-made man.

Dawson's first public service was as municipal judge of Charleston. He was elected mayor in 1935, did such a splendid job that he was re-elected in 1939 and again in 1943. He married Miss Elizabeth Brown of Riverside, W. Va., in 1923 and they have one daughter, Anne Catherine, now a student at Hollins college.

Like Governor Dewey, Mayor Dawson has an extraordinary background of administrative experience. Since he began serving as mayor of Charleston he has carried out a program of municipal improvement that has been outstanding and away in advance of other cities of comparable size throughout the country. Under his administration, there have been numerous public improvements, including the noted Kanawha boulevard, the municipal auditorium, the Littlepage terrace and Washington major projects, consisting of 474 modern housing units which replaced substandard units; two bridges over Elk river and one over the Kanawha; a new city incinerator, four new fire department substations, more than thirty-two miles of street paving in addition to the boulevard, a new sewer system in the business district, several playgrounds and a new lighting system in many places as well as many other improvements. The Kanawha boulevard, known as Charleston's "front yard," has been called the most attractive in the United States.

A man with this background of administrative success and civic achievement certainly is splendidly qualified to take over the governorship of that state. Its citizens could do nothing better than to avail themselves of his services therein.

The Coat Is Turned To Suit the Occasion

GOVERNOR DEWEY has made note of the fact that in October of every election year, Mr. Roosevelt always professes his deep interest in small business and his great friendship for the poor. For the eleven months of each year he does everything he can to strangle small business in pursuit of his collectivist program.

That is a custom of Mr. Roosevelt. It is a sort of habit. He turns his coat whenever the circumstances prompt. He is an opportunist of the first degree. He will do anything and everything to gain votes or promote his own interests regardless of past utterances, platform pledges or solemn assurances.

For example, there has been a right-about-face on the subject of pre-Pearl Harbor foreign relations policy. What were the destroyers-for-bases deal, the repeal of the arms embargo, lend lease, the repeal of cash-and-carry, the armed ships bill, the appeasement of Japan through enormous shipments of scrap metal and oil to that country? Why, the New Dealers would have us believe now that all of that was a demonstration of foresight in anticipation of inevitable war and that Mr. Roosevelt was preparing the nation for the war that was to come.

But, what did they tell us at the time? It wasn't preparation for war, it wasn't necessary to prepare us for war as it wouldn't come, but it was all done for the express purpose of keeping us out of war and the country was assured that no sons of American mothers would ever be sent to fight wars on foreign soil; and this was one of those solemn assurances that were made "again and again and again."

Mr. Roosevelt and the New Deal changes coats whenever the conditions and circumstances seem to warrant. So, how can one have any faith in the promises which are now made either for foreign or domestic policy? They may switch over night, whenever the personal needs and necessities arise. And that is one of the many reasons why it is time for a change.

Only Hearty Laughter Explains Sordid Sale

GOVERNOR DEWEY'S REVELATIONS of the sordid and illegal manner in which Mr. Roosevelt has offered the Democratic party and the government of the United States "for sale to the highest bidder," through the notorious One Thousand Club, have shocked the moral sensibilities of all decent citizens. And Governor Dewey has made it pretty plain that the highest bidder is the Political Action Committee of Sidney Hillman and the Communists of Earl Browder, who, by reason of the influence already exercised, are taking over the Democratic party.

David Lawrence and many others have publicly called upon Mr. Roosevelt to make some explanation of the One Thousand Club membership in which gains "special privilege," a "voice in the formation of administration policies," personal visits Thursday afternoons with Mr. Roosevelt and a "pass" to "go anywhere" in Washington. Indeed, the shameful and shocking aspects of that have called for some sort of explanation. But what have the people got?

Just a hearty laugh from the president, according to the Washington report by the Associated Press, and the further disgraceful disclosure that the president had only sworn to sell the One Hundred Thousand Dollar Club instead of picaresque Thousand Dollar Club! That is what Mr. Roosevelt thinks of the auction sale, of the federal Corrupt Practices act, of his constitutional duty to observe and enforce the laws. That is to say, he is selling the party and the government for our benefit, so what are you, the people, going to do about it?—we are ruling the roost and what we say goes, and you haven't any business questioning it.

King Louis XIV of France, according to Photograms, spent during his lifetime a total of $5,000,000 on buttons. What political office was he running for?

This is the time of year when we all like to make ourselves believe that dead leaves are good for the lawn.

I Could Be Perfect, but—

By MARSHALL MASLIN

I know a lot about raising children. I have read dozens of books on the subject and have done considerable thinking about it. I used to get rather good "marks" in school, so at least I have a good memory, regardless of what you may think of my intelligence.

So I know about children. I used to be one of them and I think I remember what they should eat. I know what they should eat. I know how much sleep they should have. I know how they should be treated.

I have a fair idea of what goes on in their minds and what they think of grown-ups. (I am not always sure of this, however.) I know what they say should be heard respectfully and that they should be treated with respect.

I know that children like to know where they stand; they like a "no" to mean "no" and a "yes" to mean "yes."

I know that parents shouldn't fuss and nag and SHOULD treat children as intelligent human beings.

They should not let small irritations trouble them and should always keep their promises.

Their homes should be quiet and restful and really HOME for the young ones, places where the truth can be told and where the child can feel at ease.

In fact, I know a lot about what a parent should be and much more than I have set down here. If I tried to write all I know about raising children, it would fill a fat book and people would write to me for advice.

LEAVING SOMEBODY OUT OF THE PICTURE

Legal Status of Roosevelt Is Seen Hit By Violations of Federal Campaign Act

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—If President Roosevelt wins the election it will be the first time that a legal doubt will have been cast upon the cleanliness of his title.

For this election campaign is being conducted with widespread acquiescence in violations of the federal Corrupt Practices act.

Notwithstanding this, the department of Justice, which is one of the departments of the government directly under the president's own jurisdiction, has not begun a single prosecution for law violation, and yet a Senate committee composed of Republicans and Democrats alike has voted unanimously to recommend to the department of Justice that a test case be begun on the alleged violation of the federal Corrupt Practices act by a labor union.

This step is a humiliating revelation to the country that the department of Justice is derelict in its duties and must be prodded by a committee of Republicans and Democrats in the Senate to see that the laws are faithfully executed.

Anything of Value Proscribed

The federal Corrupt Practices act prohibits labor unions as well as corporations from contributing not only money but any of their facilities or "anything of value" to assist in presidential campaigns. There is plenty of evidence that union organizations have been used to enroll workers to bring voters to the polls next Tuesday. The unions themselves frankly admit that they have issued literature bearing upon the campaign and they are openly questioning the validity of the law.

If Mr. Roosevelt wins, it will be largely because of the heavy vote brought to the polls in the big cities by the CIO Political Action Committee. There are nine pivotal cities located in nine states that embrace a bloc of 222 electoral votes which together with the Solid South of 112 gives more than the necessary 266 majority needed to win.

Concentration in these nine cities can bring in enough majorities to control the electoral vote in those nine states, and the CIO-PAC has concentrated on these cities and put in its most intensive work there. The cities are: New York, Philadelphia, Chicago, Los Angeles, Cleveland, Detroit, Boston, St. Louis and Milwaukee.

Services a Violation

Many citizens who are members of labor unions have been requested by union officers to volunteer their services or their funds in connection with electioneering. It is a violation of law for any unions to permit their officers during normal working hours to utilize any of the time paid for by unions themselves for election purposes. It is likewise a violation of law for union lists or membership rosters to be utilized for campaign purposes.

Members of Congress have drawn these matters to the attention of the department of Justice without result.

The constitution of the United States says that the president "shall take care that the laws be faithfully executed." It is an obligation of the president, particularly when he is a candidate for re-election, to lean over backward to see that the laws relating to elections are faithfully executed. Today, our outstanding currency is increasing more rapidly than is our supply of food, clothing and shelter.

Political Link Is Seen in Recall Of Gen. Stilwell

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—Oats and thistles from the political feed-buckets have been truly attributed to Generalissimo Chiang's objections, but there may be another reason why Mr. Roosevelt chose to act at this time, a week before election.

Recall of Gen. Stilwell from China has been truly attributed to Generalissimo Chiang's objections, but there may be another reason why Mr. Roosevelt chose to act at this time, a week before election.

American fighting men on that front have been voting for Dewey in large numbers. They tell of this in letters received from them over the past sixty days. Few were pleased with the deficient if not deplorable fighting conditions on their front, and naturally blamed their commanding officer, not knowing the ins and outs of his own personal situation.

As one good Democratic soldier out there (he always has been an active worker for Mr. Roosevelt at home in the first three terms campaigns) expressed what he termed the prevailing sentiment:

Would Try Anything

"We do not know how much Dewey can do to bring a change over here, but we are willing to try anything for a change." (The letter was passed by censorship.)

The Stilwell-Chiang situation is not new. As far back as two years ago Gen. Marshall told the Senate Military Affairs committee of Stilwell's troubles with the Chinese generals.

Extent of the turn-away of union labor votes from the Democratic banner next Tuesday may be surprising. AFL in New York state for a prime example, is to a sizeable extent supporting the Republican senatorial nominee Curran against Senator Wagner, author of the Labor Relations Board law. (They do not want Hillman left wing in control and the Dewey-Curran labor record is good.)

For this reason, senatorial authorities here are predicting Wagner's defeat even if Dewey loses the state.

In Pennsylvania, an employer says there are only five Roosevelt votes in his CIO shop (numbering around 50). A Pennsylvania factory owner has written Senator Davis that there are no Roosevelt votes in his CIO plant of 750.

AN AFL troubleshooter privately fears retaliation voting from union members who did not want to join and find in this election their first opportunity to say so without detection.

Governor Dewey, in his campaign has disclosed a remarkable nose for news beyond any other candidate of any time. His disclosure of the $25,000 legal fee the rail brotherhoods had to pay to Ed Flynn, Bronx boss, was a complete scoop on top labor leaders here, including John Lewis.

No one else had the Thousand Dollar Club story either, although it had been gettable for some weeks. Examples Dewey used in speeches were mostly new and not previously printed. His threat of housecleaning is not taken lightly here.

Most astonishing remark of the campaign was Interior Secretary Ickes' strike at 77-year-old Senator Hiram Johnson as a prospective isolationist chairman of the Foreign Relations committee if the Republicans win the Senate.

It was Johnson who got Ickes the job with Roosevelt as interior secretary. Johnson declined the cabinet post tendered by Mr. R. in 1932 and recommended Ickes, of whom Mr. Roosevelt had not previously heard.

Close followers of Congress rose out of their chairs when Mr. Roosevelt promised a real crop insurance, leaving the idea that the experiment on wheat would be extended.

The man who defeated its extension at the past session was Roosevelt's good supporter in Congress, Chairman Clarence Cannon, of House Appropriations. And the man who led the fight for crop insurance was Republican Senator Nye (although it was later taken up by Democratic Senator Scott Lucas).

Tactical Blunder

But Mr. Truman nearly topped Ickes by attributing isolationism to Senator Walsh, who is not only supporting the Roosevelt-Truman ticket but had introduced Truman for a speech in Massachusetts a few days earlier in an exceptionally friendly way.

Democratically characterize the Truman remark as a tactical blunder. He and Ickes seem to be even chasing away their friends. If you add Dr. Gallup's leaning states on both sides, (October 25) and divide the 50-50's, Gov. Dewey wins. But this logical conclusion is denied by the good doctor who says he is probably four per cent off, and the text of his deductions sound as if he thinks Roosevelt will win.

Nobody is blaming anybody for refusing predictions this time. All polls show the issue too close in the vital states (New York, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts.)

PRE-VICTORY FEAST

Babson Explains Inflation Causes And Consequences

By ROGER W. BABSON

BABSON PARK, MASS., Nov. 2.—Inflation is the result of increasing the currency or the debt of the country more rapidly than the assets of the country. Inflation is a form of disease which has started from many different sources. Note these five:

- (1) The crudest form of inflation came from "clipping coins." This means making them smaller or thinner. It is the form that is still used in certain countries.
- (2) In the case of paper money, the same result is obtained by printing additional paper money without increasing the gold reserve. This is the method which is now being used in the United States.
- (3) A similar result can be obtained by issuing an excess of government bonds, which are really a

Like Whiskey

Inflation is a temporary stimulant to business; but, like whiskey, its stimulating effects last for only a short time. Sooner or later increased prices effect all advantages temporarily secured by a "cheap dollar." Hence, to refer again to fire departments.

(A) In the postwar period, there will be a general rise in the prices of all materials which municipalities purchase. This means that the sooner fire departments purchase new equipment and extend their fire alarm systems the better off the cities will be. Furthermore, only common justice demands an increase in firemen's wages.

(B) As the effects of inflation become recognized there will be a demand by real estate owners, merchants and others for greater fire protection. When it costs more to replace property, the owners of buildings and merchandise will be more fearful of fires and more anxious for greater protection. Therefore, city officials can now talk inflation to their citizens with the full support of all property owners.

Third Oak Leaf Cluster Awarded Westernport Man

Tech. Sgt. Walter P. Warnick, Jr., Has Completed over 30 Missions

WESTERNPORT, Nov. 2—Tech. Sgt. Walter P. Warnick, Jr., 23-year-old B-17 Flying Fortress engineer and waist gunner, of here, veteran of more than thirty bombing attacks with the Eighth air force in England, against targets in Nazi Europe, has been decorated with the third Oak Leaf cluster to his Air medal, for continued achievement and high courage in aerial combat.

A son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Warnick, 305 Maryland avenue, Westernport, and formerly a student at West Virginia university, Sgt. Warnick has a colorful battle career behind him. He narrowly escaped death over Berlin, when a heavy piece of flak tore through his flight cap. He flew in support of Allied landings in Normandy on D-day, and recently took part in a three-way shuttle bombing attack—from England to Russia, to Italy, and back to England. The Maryland airman has flown more than 2,000 miles to aid in the bombing of vital German targets, including: war plants, oil stores, marshalling yards, military installations, troop positions, and flying bomb sites. A brother, Pfc. Harry F. Warnick, is serving with the infantry in France.

Sgt. Warnick's veteran group—the Three Hundred and Ninetieth—holds a Presidential citation for its daring and highly successful attack

Federal Inspector Proposes Changes For Barton Mine

J. C. Davis Issues Report on Campbell Coal Company Property

Better ventilating facilities, improved timbering under a systematic plan, additional haulage safeguards, and elimination of ignition dangers by exclusive use of permissible explosives in a permissible manner, replacement of open-flame cap lights with permissible electric lamps, and a ban on underground smoking have been recommended again for the 125-ton-a-day Hampshire mine of the Campbell Coal Company at Barton, by a federal coal mine inspector following his recent re-examination of the mine.

Federal Inspector J. C. Davis, who re-inspected the mine a few weeks ago, said that several noteworthy improvements had been effected since an earlier government inspection. These are described in a detailed report just made public by the Bureau of Mines. The changes were attributed to company initiative, employee co-operation, orders of state mine officials, and adoption of federal recommendations.

Describing several remaining sub-standard practices and conditions, Davis suggested safeguards for the main ventilating fan and continuous operation of the unit, tests for explosive gas at least once a month, use of water to allay coal dust in dry areas, guards for trolley wires at exposed places, wider use of special protective equipment by inspection, Davis said, derail switches were provided at the bottom of the incline plane, crosscuts were driven at intervals not exceeding eighty feet, the eighteen employees, and training of each in first aid.

Funeral Directors Have Ladies Night

Ladies night was observed by the Tri-State Funeral Directors Association with a turkey and ham dinner last evening at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club.

The Halloween motif was carried out in the table decorations with bouquets of yellow asters and pumpkin lanterns. Covers were laid for thirty-nine guests, and corsages of baby pompons were given to each lady.

Rose Marie, Delores and Leonard Ferrone played various selections during the dinner. The feature entertainment was given by Oscar D. Parrish, magician, formerly of Indianapolis, Ind., who is now employed at the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company. He was assisted in a number of tricks by Mrs. Joseph Durst of Frostburg. A program of singing and dancing and a short skit by Mary Maphis, Robert Maphis, David Maphis and David Honecamp concluded the program.

1,285 Bushels Of Milkweed Floss Collected

The 1,285 bushels of milkweed floss collected by students in Allegheny county public and parochial schools will be collected by trucks about the middle of November, according to Robert E. Laramy, assistant conservationist for the soil conservation service.

Explaining that the collection has been delayed because the Garrett county milkweed crop was picked later than in Allegheny county, Laramy said that the Garrett crop must be thoroughly dried before it is packed with the local crop for shipment.

Although many bags of the floss were not taken indoors recently because of rainy weather, Laramy said that those collected in this county are dry enough to be stored indoors, and should be taken in before another rainy spell comes.

Trucks will collect the bags at each school and take them to local railroad stations, where they will be packed into a freight car and shipped out to Petokey, Mich., the headquarters of an agency of the department of Agriculture. The government will pay the schools twenty cents for each bag of floss turned in, Laramy stated.

Although the original quota for the county's milkweed drive was set at 1,000 bushels, it was predicted yesterday that final reports from all the schools will show a total collection of 1,500 bushels.

Students in twenty other states besides Maryland took part in the national drive to collect 1,500,000 pounds of milkweed floss, making a substitute for kapok in making lifejackets for the armed forces.

The club will consist of fifty-six members, who agree to give fifty-six minutes each week, a minute more than they gave last year, when the order had a phenomenal growth of 16,000 members. An effort is being made to organize 665 clubs to assist in carrying out the order's program, Mr. Hawkins said.

Those who perform outstanding service during the year will be honored by the Supreme office with a special award, Mr. Hawkins said and expressed his hope that the local organization will have many members winning recognition.

CAP PROFICIENCY PROGRAM WILL START JAN. 1

A Civil Air Patrol proficiency program is being inaugurated by the national headquarters, Maj. Arthur Lyem, commander of Squadron 331 CAP, announces. National headquarters has been preparing the program and will put it into effect January 1, 1945. It comprises numerous practical flight missions, ranging from one to three hours.

The purpose of the program, Major Lyem said, is to develop and maintain a high level of proficiency among CAP flight personnel and insure an adequate pool of qualified pilots and observers available to meet the continuing official demands upon local units for CAP flight services and special emergency missions.

All flight personnel eligible for the program, will be required to have satisfactorily completed all basic and advanced CAP pre-flight training courses; hold currently effective FCC restricted radio telephone operator's permits, and must hold currently effective CAA pilot's certificates of private pilot or higher.

Special certificates will be issued by headquarters, Thirty-second AAF Base Unit, New York City, to all CAP pilots and observers who satisfactorily complete the flight proficiency program, which will require from fifty to seventy-five hours of flying over a period of nine to twelve months, Maj. Lyem said. The national headquarters reports it has taken the necessary steps with the federal officials in charge of aviation gasoline control to insure that fuel be available for purchase by active CAP members.

Science Goes Swanky in Former Mansion

By CHARLES SIEB
AP Newsfeatures

PHILADELPHIA — Cluttered laboratories have replaced the gold-plated bed chambers at fabulous 150-room Whitmarsh, former mansion of railroad magnate E. T. Stotesbury.

Stone covered worktables contrast with the delicately paneled walls of Mrs. Stotesbury's boudoir in what was once known as the "Versailles of America." Bacteria cultures thrive in the marble bathroom once used by her son, James R. Cromwell, former husband of Doris Duke.

Efficient modern lighting has replaced the crystal chandeliers that once sparkled on colorful assemblies. Industrial chemistry flourishes in the stately rooms of the 300-acre estate, built between 1916 and 1921 at a cost of $5,000,000, and furnished for an additional $7,000,000.

Bought last October for $187,000 by the Pennsylvania Salt Co., the mansion now is headquarters for a research staff of 75 persons and their tools of modern science, no less fabulous in their way than the estate's former fittings.

Walter S. Riggs, director of development, has his office in the billiard room and the company's patent section is housed in the dining room. The once famous guest rooms, each with its own embossed stationery, are also offices and laboratories.

Scientists and their assistants now eat lunch in the butler's pantry, and hold seminars in the motion picture theater. Only the grounds, kept in their original form under the purchase agreement, remain as formal and gracious and unbusinesslike as in the heyday of Whitmarsh's glory.

MARRIAGE LICENSES

Licenses to marry were issued to five couples yesterday in the office of the clerk of circuit court. They were issued to:

George William Thompson, Butler, Pa., and Maude Sarah Blair, East Brady, Pa.

Jack Harrison Jones and Sarah Juneattie Leatherman, Cumberland, Tipton, Sheets, Baltimore, and Dorothy Drusilla Kemner, Washington, D. C.

Ralph Charles Zaring, Brownsville, Pa., and Helen Augusta Harned, Uniontown, Pa.

Robert Earl Matthew, Philippi, W. Va., and Jean Doris Hagan, Pittsburgh, Pa.

1,200 Maryland Soldier Ballots Declared Legal

BALTIMORE, Nov. 2 (AP) — Approximately 1,200 of more than 4,000 absentee ballots voted on the federal ballot form in Maryland were validated today by Chief Judge W. Conwell Smith who decided that the state policy of liberal interpretation made the ballots acceptable.

The ballots had been questioned because voters omitted to make a check mark in the ballot oath form to show they had applied for but failed to receive a state ballot. The War Ballot commission had suggested that a judicial decision be obtained.

To settle the issue, Representative Daniel Ellison, Republican, and George H. Fallon, Democrat, opposing candidates for Congress from the Fourth Congressional district had joined in a friendly suit against the Baltimore board of election supervisors in circuit court No. 2.

Attorney General William C. Walsh, on behalf of the election board, said he and the War Ballot commission would "like to see these ballots validated," adding that he thought omission of the check mark had in most cases been an oversight.

Out of the Frying Pan Into the Honor Roll

LEEDS, S. C. (AP)—The Legion of Merit, fourth highest decoration of the United States Army has been given to S-Sgt. William H. McCollum of Leeds, for contriving "ways and means of making food tasty and appealing" while his unit was operating under difficult battle conditions in North Africa.

The Metropolitan Museum of Art, New York, contains 325,811 square feet of exhibition floor space.

GHOST TOWN LUMBERS OFF TO WAR

CEMETERY ROW—War's long hand has clutched Hobart Mills, a ghostly lumbering town, that has lain deserted and dead since 1938 when the mill shut down never to go again. Wreckers are salvaging 70-odd buildings to provide the sinews of war elsewhere on the home front.

By BONNIE WILEY
AP Newsfeatures Writer

HOBART MILLS, Calif. — Even the ghosts in this ghost town are stirring.

Deserted since everybody moved out when the lumber mill shut down in 1938, Hobart Mills—a loose shutter creaking, a stray sheep loafing down its main street—has waited quietly for the end, when time and termites would level its buildings.

All that is changed now because of the war-brought lumber shortage and wrecking crews are salvaging lumber from the old buildings to use on the home front, releasing new wood for the fighting fronts.

A Company Town
Nearly fifty years old, Hobart Mills was a typical company town of seventy-one houses with a 2,000 peak population, going unfalteringly about its business, until lack of available timber caused the mill to shut down, a fate suffered by many other western lumbering communities.

A granite-mounted memorial plaque, erected to the town's founders, stands at the head of the main street, a few yards from a boarded-up, two-story wooden building that was a church on Sundays, school on week days.

No Wild Woolly Past
There was nothing at all rowdy, old-timers recall, about Hobart Mills. It was controlled by the company and the company didn't put up with anything out of line. For celebrations the lumberpacks had to go to near-by Truckee. There wasn't much moaning and despair when the town's death sentence was pronounced. The workers and their families had seen it coming and the company had provided other jobs for its employees. Hobart Mills had no chance to stage a comeback. The mill machinery was sold to junk dealers.

But the quiet's been broken by wreckers' hammers now and Hobart Mills' ghost houses are marching to war.

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — Brazil is still producing three to three and one-half tons of gold yearly from its ancient mines. Granddaddy of all Brazilian gold mines is the St. John's Morro Velho more than 100 years old, which turns out nearly a ton and one-half of gold a year. The overall average of gold content in the mined ore is about twelve grams per ton.

By WILLIAM A. WILSON
MIDLAND, Nov. 2.—Pvt. Edward Bullick, 21, was reported killed in action in Germany on October 19 in a War department message received this afternoon by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Bullick, of Midland. Details of his death were not disclosed.

An infantryman, Pvt. Bullick entered the army in February 1943 and received his training at Camp McCain, Miss. He was sent to England in August of that year and subsequently landed in France. He fought through that nation and Belgium and into Germany. The last word his parents received from him was written in Germany. Pvt. Bullick was a former employee at the Celanese plant and attended St. Joseph's parochial school at Midland.

Surviving besides his parents are four brothers, Joseph Bullick, Buffalo, N. Y.; Vincent Bullick, Chicago; Peter Bullick, at home; and Charles Bullick, serving with the army in Italy. Two sisters, Misses Rosella and Isabel Bullick, Midland, also survive.

Well Preserved!

ACCOMAC, Va. (AP)—Mrs. Ella H. Savage has a jar of peaches 42 years old. They were preserved by her mother, Mrs. William Budd, in 1902.

IT'S A HALF-HAT

THIS HALF-HAT is of soft gold felt, molded to the brow and draped in heavy, corded black scarf. Small black silk tassels add a nice touch.

1902 and Mrs. Savage says they are still "keeping" perfectly.

47 Persons Arrested For Drunkenness Here in October

In October forty-seven persons were arrested on charges of drunkenness, according to entries on the docket at police court.

Several of the thirty-seven persons taken into custody on charges of disorderly conduct were women and the arrest of women on various charges is higher now than in former years, police stated.

Although there were fewer cases of juvenile delinquency last month the average is still above normal, police said. Of seventeen persons arrested on that charge, more than half were youths later held for questioning in petty robberies and vandalism connected with the Halloween season.

MacArthur Has Narrow Escape

GENERAL MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, PHILIPPINES, Friday, Nov. 3 (P)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur, one of his closest escapes from death today when a Japanese strafing attack put a 50 calibre bullet into a wall just a foot from his head.

Hearing the bullet hit, Col. Lloyd Lenth, the general's aide, rushed into the room to find the American commander examining the hole. Unconcernedly nodding to the hole just above his head, Gen. MacArthur said:

"Well, not yet."

The general has had many close brushes with death. The closest also was in the Philippines, from a bombing attack shortly after this war began.

He was in the open when some Japanese planes appeared. One bomb exploded only a few feet away and wounded one of his Filipino orderlies standing by his side.

Ickes Brings Hitler And Goebbels into National Campaign

NEW YORK, Nov. 2 (P)—The New Deal's New York drive to re-elect President Roosevelt reached its climax tonight with Secretary of the Interior Harold I. Ickes asserting the Republican campaign deliberately encouraged anti-Semitism. "This Dewey smear campaign of hate and prejudice follows the pattern contrived by Adolf Hitler and the unspeakable Goebbels," Ickes told a crowd that filled Madison Square Garden. The rally was sponsored by the "Everybody for Roosevelt" committee.

"I charge that the campaign of Mr. Dewey has been a sly, but deliberate effort to encourage and to capitalize upon the anti-labor and anti-Semitic feeling which has been fanned in the United States," Ickes said.

Japanese Fail To Take Kweilin

CHUNGKING, Nov. 2 (P)—Stalled after four unsuccessful frontal attacks on Kweilin, the Japanese have sent a column sweeping around twelve miles to the south in an attempt to envelop this Kwangsi province gateway city, the Chinese high command announced tonight. The Japanese stormed the northwestern suburbs of the city and fighting raged in the north railway station, but the enemy was driven back after pulling up to the south railway station.

Some fifty miles to the southeast, the Japanese laid siege to the important communications center of Pinglo, from where they could threaten the city of Luichow, in the heart of the province ninety-five miles to the west.

Siegfried Line

By strengthened German defenses in the morning after a heavy artillery barrage that resounded through Hurtgen forest.

By evening American infantrymen still were slowing forward against stiffening resistance. It was announced at supreme headquarters. Three hundred prisoners were routed from pillboxes and foxholes as the Americans broke clear out of the eastern fringes of the battle-chewed forest, across the road leading south from Duren to Lammersdorf, and on into a smaller woodland beyond.

The big push, preceded by a barrage of exploding shells, was met by a counter-attack by the German armor, which overran the town of Vossenack, twelve miles southwest of Aachen, and carried to the edge of the stronghold of Hurtgen itself, two miles to the north.

British Clear Flushing

Meanwhile British troops cleared Vilsingen, flushing out all but snipers, seized his gun batteries on the sand dunes to the north, and more reinforcements poured onto this flooded Walcheren island for the final mop-up of Antwerp's seaward approaches.

As this vital drive for one of the world's finest ports neared a triumphant climax, the entire front began stirring.

The British, hammering away at German rearguards battered against the Maas, drove a mile nearer the two vital bridges across the stream at Moerdijk, widened their hold on the south bank to four miles, and smashed into the enemy citadel of Geertruidenberg.

German accounts asserted the British some four miles to the west of Geertruidenberg had tried to force their way across the Maas and were repulsed, but this account was without Allied substantiation.

While the final hour of reckoning neared for the 7,000 to 10,000 Germans holding out on Walcheren Island, enemy defenses across the Scheldt estuary to the south collapsed.

The Germans' last three strongholds, the Belgian seaside towns of Knocke and West and the Dutch frontier village of Sluis, five miles east, fell in yet another day, and 1,700 more prisoners swelled the Canadian total of captives in the Scheldt pocket to 11,700.

All Time Record

oil center had a prewar monthly production figure of 16,000 tons but recent raids have lowered this figure about seventy-five per cent, air officials said.

Summing up its October raids by Lancasters and Halifaxes, the RAF announced today it had plastered German targets with 131,000,000 pounds of explosives during the past month, an average of 3,000 pounds a minute night and day. United States Eighth Air Force flew east, fell in yet another day, and 1,700 more prisoners swelled the Canadian total of captives in the Scheldt pocket to 11,700.

Hannegan's Opinion

NEW YORK, Nov. 2 (P)—Democratic National Chairman Robert E. Hannegan said tonight that the Republican party has sought to divert the people from the real issues of the presidential campaign by a campaign of division and disunity, of falsehood and bigotry.

Dewey Flays New Deal in Talks To Baltimore and Penna. Voters

Dewey, declaring Mr. Roosevelt's New Deal regime had "failed miserably for eight peacetime years," told a cheering Baltimore theatre audience this noon that the president, "in his desperate desire for sixteen years in the White House, is straining every conceivable effort, including offering to sell our government for a thousand dollars to any man."

"The offer is being peddled in every state in the union," he declared, "that for $1,000 you may have special privileges in our government. You may help to shape its policies and have tea on Thursday afternoons with the president." But, as he said last night in a major broadcast from Boston, Dewey went on, "they are being taken for a ride."

"The deal is made and it is time that we decide that we here in America are going to go forward to preserve freedom and not accept any form of totalitarianism however much desperate men may be willing to use its methods to achieve perpetual power."

Dewey addressed an overflow audience in a Baltimore theatre seating 3,000 after a five mile motor parade through downtown streets. Boos mingled with cheers along the route, but reporters got the impression that most of the derisive shouts were directed at Baltimore's former mayor, Howard W. Jackson, a Democrat, who has joined the Dewey ranks.

Will Rest Today

From Baltimore, the New York governor rode in Wilkes-Barre and Scranton, and then planned to return to Albany for a day of rest before his wind up rally in Madison Square Garden, New York city, Saturday night. Mr. Dewey, who has accompanied her husband throughout his campaign, left the party at Baltimore and went to New York for a reception in honor of her and Mrs. John W. Bricker, wife of the G. O. P. vice-presidential nominee.

Dewey told his Baltimore audience that unless a new administration is elected next Tuesday, which his campaign staff has come to refer to as "E-day," there is danger that the program for setting up a world peace organization will be "wrecked upon the rock of one man's arbitrary will."

He appealed directly for Democratic support, declaring:

"This is not a contest between Democrats and Republicans. It is a contest between those who stand for the principles of the American system of government—Republicans and Democrats alike—and on the other hand, those who have kidnapped the Democratic party in order to change our system of government."

"The only way for the real membership of the Democratic party to win in this election, the only way for the Democrats to recapture their party, is to join with the Republicans in defeating the New Deal, the Political Action Committee and the Communists."

Gov. Martin Boards Train

Governor Edward Martin and former Lieutenant Governor Samuel Lewis boarded the Dewey campaign special at York for the swing through Pennsylvania. It was in Philadelphia that the G. O. P. nominee opened his campaign on September 7. Later he journeyed to Pittsburgh for his major labor speech.

Governor Dewey spent the last fifteen minutes of his Baltimore visit autographing bits of paper thrust at him by dozens of persons in the forefront of the crowd which went back to the station to see him off.

One very short woman in the middle of the throng yelled repeatedly: "Oh, Governor Dewey, I want to shake your hand." The governor made a path through the crowd and leaned down from the rear platform of his special train to shake her hand.

Mrs. Dewey wore a huge corsage of "Mrs. Dewey orchids" presented her at the railroad station by Mrs. Lula E. Powell, Republican national committeewoman for Maryland.

Crowd Greets Dewey

The crowd which lined the streets in Baltimore was estimated at between 25,000 and 28,000 persons by Chief Police Inspector M. Joseph Wallace.

A crowd estimated at about 600 persons met Dewey at the Pennsylvania station when his train arrived shortly before noon. A delegation of dignitaries, among them Democratic former Mayor Howard W. Jackson, formed the official reception committee.

"And all of them have this in common—that they yearn for peace and stability and they look to America with hope and faith."

"The world is rising from the agony of the past, the world is turning with hope to the future. It would be a sorry and cynical thing to betray this hope for the sake of mere political advantage and a tragic thing to shatter it because of the failure of vision."

have a total of 39 electoral votes: Alabama, Arizona, Arkansas, California, Connecticut, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, Montana, Nevada, North Carolina, Rhode Island, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, Utah, Virginia and Washington.

Dewey given the edge in these twelve states, whose combined electoral vote is 115: Colorado, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Maine, Michigan, Nebraska, North Dakota, Ohio, South Dakota, Vermont and Wisconsin.

Workers in downtown office buildings filled the air with torn paper, confetti and ticker tape.

Workers Hear Dewey

Numerous shops and offices gave employees permission to join in the demonstration for Dewey, and some were allowed to attend the rally at the theater (Lyric).

Mayor McKeldin introduced Dewey at the meeting, which began about the time the candidate started his tour and which reached a climax as he entered through the rear of the building, about fifteen minutes behind schedule.

The approximately 3,000 persons inside gave him a long ovation after he entered, while hundreds who were shut out because of lack of room waited until he emerged to cheer him on his way.

Simon E. Koedel Pleads Innocent to Charge Of Espionage

Simon E. Koedel, 62, indicted on a charge of espionage, pleaded innocent yesterday to federal charges concerning six overt acts of supplying information to Germany on ship movements and lend-lease shipments.

Arraigned in New York city before Federal Judge Robert A. Inch, Koedel was held in $25,000 bail for trial November 13. His foster daughter, Marie Koedel, 26, who pleaded innocent to the indictment, was taken to the federal prison for women and held there to await trial on the same date.

Koedel was arrested last week by FBI agents at Harpers Ferry and at the same time the FBI announced that his foster daughter had been taken into custody in New York city.

The accused man waived examination last Saturday when arraigned before Judge William E. Baker in Northern West Virginia District Federal court at Wheeling, W. Va., and was held under heavy guard in Ohio county jail in default of $25,000 bond before being taken to New York to stand trial.

The applications will be submitted to the board in a group by an authorized member of each committee, Radcliffe said, adding that individual applications will be accepted if accompanied by a letter signed by the committee chairman of either party.

FORTRESS GUNNER RETURNS TO STATES

After serving for seven months as tail gunner on the B-17 Flying Fortress, "Sleepless Knights," in the European theater, Staff Sgt. Robert W. Carter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Carter, 311 Polk street, is now stationed at the Fort Meade reception center.

Winner of the Distinguished Flying Cross and the Air Medal with three Oak Leaf Clusters, Sgt. Carter has been on missions to Magdeburg, Leipzig, Hamburg and Stuttgart.

Recalling his numerous missions, Sgt. Carter thinks the one on which a short hop was made to support ground troops in France is the most memorable. "We made our bombing run right down the front lines," he explained, "and every German gunner on the line got in a few shots at us. We were in flak for seven minutes."

A graduate of Allegheny high school and Sgt. Carter's parochial school, Sgt. Carter was employed at the Strand theater here prior to entering the army air forces in January, 1943.

Stocks Display Recovery Signs With Blue Chips Taking the Lead

By VICTOR EUBANK

NEW YORK, Nov. 2 (P)—Stocks generally displayed recovery leanings in today's market although a few recently strong aircraft succeeded to profit cashing and investment conservation still served as a brake on the advance.

Rails, motors and scattered blue chips made the best showing and were ahead from the start. Steels, came back in the final half hour for modest plus signs. Gains of fractions to two points or so predominated at the close.

The Associated Press sixty-stock average was up .5 of a point at 56.3. Transfers totaled 790,140 shares compared with 708,069 Wednesday.

Du Pont advanced 2 1/2 and lesser improvement was held by Santa Fe, Southern Pacific, Chrysler, General Motors, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Goodyear, U. S. Rubber, Deere, Boeing, United Aircraft, Western Union "A," Westinghouse, Texas Co., Montgomery Ward and Kennecott. Commonwealth & Southern, liveliest performer came out in blocks running to 20,000 shares and finished up 1-16 of a point at 15-16.

Douglas Aircraft dropped a point and Grumman 3/4. Minor losers were Packard, Texas Pacific Land Trust, American Cable and Pacific Gas.

Forward curb leaders were American Republics, Cities Service, Electric Bond & Share and Cuban Atlantic Sugar. Turnover here was $40,650 shares versus 225,270 yesterday.

The bond market encountered opposition in extending Wednesday's advance and settled back into a narrow and irregular position before the close.

Selected rails and favored industrials were still on the buying list, however, and investment interest was keener in the higher priced division coincident with a sharp drop in new offerings compared with the record-breaking volume of new securities floated last month.

Sales of $6,774,800 compared with $6,398,900 on Wednesday.

The General Assembly of Maryland, by public local law, may authorize the Mayor and City Council of Baltimore to create a Baltimore Redevelopment Commission. Any public local law authorizing the creation of the Baltimore Redevelopment Commission shall contain the following provisions: (a) The Baltimore Redevelopment Commission shall come into being only when the City Council of Baltimore shall pass a resolution that there is need for the establishment of such a Commission in the City of Baltimore. When the City Council of Baltimore adopts such a resolution, it shall promptly notify the Mayor of Baltimore City of such adoption. Upon receiving such notice and approving said resolution, the Mayor shall appoint five persons (or such additional number of persons as the General Assembly may provide in said public local law), as Commissioners of the Baltimore Redevelopment Commission. The Commissioners shall serve for such terms and shall receive such compensation as the General Assembly may provide in said public local law. (b) The Baltimore Redevelopment Commission shall have power and authority to acquire land in slums and blighted areas in Baltimore City by purchase, lease or condemnation, and to convey any such land by sale or lease for redevelopment, in accordance with a redevelopment plan for Baltimore City, provided that such redevelopment plan has been approved by the Commission on City Plan of Baltimore City, and provided further that no such sum or blighted area to be acquired shall be less than eight acres or more than eighty acres. The term "slum" shall mean any area where dwellings predominate, which by reason of overcrowding, faulty construction, lack of adequate ventilation, light or sanitary facilities, or any combination of these factors, are detrimental to the public safety, health or morals. The term "blighted area" shall mean an area in which a majority of the buildings have declined in productivity by reason of obsolescence, depreciation or other causes to an extent they no longer justify fundamental repairs and adequate maintenance. (c) The Baltimore Redevelopment Commission shall have authority to use the power of eminent domain to acquire any land needed for any redevelopment project; provided, however, that the Baltimore Redevelopment Commission shall have first obtained options upon or shall have purchased at least 50 per centum of such land area required for any such redevelopment project. Property already devoted to a public use may be acquired by the Baltimore Redevelopment Commission; provided, however, that no real property belonging to the State of Maryland or the Mayor and City Council of Baltimore may be acquired without the consent of said State or of said City, as the case may be. No property taken by the Baltimore Redevelopment Commission, by exercise of the power of eminent domain, shall be taken without just compensation, as agreed upon between the parties, or awarded by a Jury. (d) The Baltimore Redevelopment Commission shall have power to petition the United States of America for loans of money and to receive from the United States of America such loans to be used in the acquisition of land in slums and blighted areas for redevelopment and for use in the preparation of any redevelopment plan. (e) The Baltimore Redevelopment Commission shall have power to recover any land acquired by it, either by purchase, lease or condemnation to any private corporations, companies, partnerships, or persons, or by redemption and rebuilding, at a price consistent with the new uses which the Commission on City Plan shall prescribe or such land, even though such price may be below the original cost of acquisition. The Baltimore Redevelopment Commission shall have power to include in the plan of sale of such land, as to private corporations, companies, partnerships, or persons, provisions obligating the purchasers or lessees of such land to begin the building of improvements within a reasonable period of time and to include in such contracts, covenants, conditions and restrictions, standards of population density, property maintenance, character of the use of land, and architectural standards established in the redevelopment plan and approved by the Commission on City Plan of Baltimore City. (f) The Baltimore Redevelopment Commission shall have no power to pledge the credit of, or in any way bind the Mayor and City Council of Baltimore, and the Mayor and City Council of Baltimore shall not be liable in any way or manner whatsoever, for any of the obligations, contracts, or undertakings of the Baltimore Redevelopment Commission. SEC. 2. The General Assembly of Maryland may grant the Baltimore Redevelopment Commission, any and all additional powers necessary and proper to carry into effect the above mentioned powers and purposes of said Commission, provided such additional powers are not inconsistent with the terms and provisions of this Article XI-B, and with any other provisions of the Constitution of Maryland. The General Assembly may add such other and further limitations upon the powers and exercise of the powers of the Baltimore Redevelopment Commission as it may deem proper and expedient. There'll Always Be a Trigger

By FRANK ECK
AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK—Trigger has helped make Roy Rogers a motion picture and rodeo star. In reciprocation, Roy says "there'll always be one trigger because I want it that way, and so do my young fans."

"He's good for quite a few years and besides I never want to think of any other horse but Trigger."

But the 8-year-old golden palomino will some day reach the end of the trail and the popular cowboy singer is prepared for the worst.

He has five Triggers.

"Yes, I am grooming four other Triggers for the future," says the western star. "However, I'm thankful that I've never had to use any of the others yet."

ROGERS ON TRIGGER . . . All for One . . .

"They are 11 years old, four, two and the baby is six months."

"The children love Trigger so much that I never want to spoil their illusion that Trigger is immortal. It'll break their little hearts."

Trigger and Roy make eight full-length western pictures a year in addition to three months of rodeo work. They travel in a special trailer (cost $1,100), pulled by a station wagon. "Next year," says Roy, "we'll travel in a big horse van because I plan to introduce a new Liberty act with six palominos."

Trigger bears up remarkably well on the road when you consider change of climate and the fact that he works 300 days a year with 230 pounds—a sixty-five pound $1,500 silver mounted saddle and 165-pound Rogers on his back most of the time.

Trigger, who weighs 1,050 pounds, is the result of breeding a Morgan with a quarter mare. The Morgan was a close-built trotter originating in Vermont while quarter horses are used on western ranches because of their sprinting speed, an important factor in rounding up cattle.

Trigger is exercised daily under the guidance of his hostler, Glenn Randall of Wyoming.

"He's just like an actor," says Randall. "Gets as nervous as anything just before the show."

"And he knows his routine better than I do," adds Roy.

Allegany, Seeking Sixth Victory, Invades Charles Town Tomorrow

Panther Squad Includes Four Holdover Regulars; Two Conference Games Carded Today

Local football interest this week will center on the Allegany High Panthers' battle with the Purple Panthers at Charles Town, W. Va., Saturday afternoon at 2:30 when the West Siders will go after their sixth victory in seven starts this season and their fifth consecutive triumph.

Last night, Coach Walter L. "Bill" Bowers announced that he plans no changes in the Allegany lineup. Halfback Paul Rank is still out with a cracked collar bone while Robert Ritter, a reserve back, is nursing a sprained ankle.

The Purple Panther squad of twenty-four includes four boys who were regulars last season but who are now in the "hot seat" because of injuries received in last week's game, according to Coach "Zip" Lorenz.

The Panthers have won three of their four contests to date, losing only to the Martinsburg (W. Va.) High Bulldogs 13-0. Victories were scored over the Romney (V. Va.) High Panthers 27-6, Berkeley Springs (W. Va.) high 26-0 and Shepherdstown (W. Va.) high last week 19-0.

Lorenz said the squad includes a great many inexperienced boys with four members of the probable starting lineup playing their first year of football.

Rouzeau Sparks Panthers

On the right side of the line, it will be newcomer "Buddy" Owens at guard; James Milton, who moved up to a starting berth this season after two years of reserve duty, at tackle, and Lester Edwards, a member of the 1943 squad, at end.

Harrison Rouzeau, a holdover regular, sparks the Panther attack. He will be at left halfback with Gene Edwards at right halfback. Walter Glenn at quarterback and Charles Shuster at fullback. Edwards and Shuster are reserves last fall while Glenn is a newcomer.

Other squad members are Billy Owens, Donald Tharpe, John Emmert, Donald Miller, Harold James, Eldon Payne, John Hoffmaster, Shaulier Allen, Bill Fink, Philip Strider, Charles Gore and Eugene Lancaster.

Last season, the Alleganyans handed Charles Town a 34-7 setback and will be favored to duplicate the feat.

Conference Games Today

This afternoon, two Potomac Valley Conference battles will be staged in nearby West Virginia towns when

Old Liners Hold Night Practice

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Nov. 2 (AP)—The University of Maryland gridmen were put through a strenuous session tonight under the lights at Byrd stadium in final efforts to sharpen their pass defense and offense for Saturday's encounter with the University of Virginia at Griffith stadium in Washington.

Coach Clarence W. Spears, with Line Mentor Herman Ball, has been conducting an anti-T-formation class all week to enable the Old Liners to cope with the "T" advocated by veteran Coach Frank Murray.

The Terps are counting heavily on the passing prowess of Chuck Ryan and Bob Trol, two of their most reliable backs. Frank Doory is also expected to see plenty of action at left end, both in pass receiving and defense.

With big Randy Bishop and Cy Continnetti in the tackle posts, Captain Les Daley at guard and probably Alex Bobenko in the center slot, Maryland's forward wall promises to be in top condition.

Surprise of the game may be the insertion of Harry Jones, 185-pound back from Harrison, 111, into the safety position. Jones has been showing up well lately and has gained recognition for passing power.

The Terps may have a slight advantage in one department, having played four night games while Virginia, highly rated for holding North Carolina pre-flight to a 13-13 deadlock, has had no night football experience this season.

Maryland, however, will still be fighting for its initial win of the present campaign.

Pfe. Alvin Johnson, former pro at the Hot Springs (Ark.) Country Club and PGA member, is now at Camp McCoy, Wis.

Bainbridge Grid Coach Resembles One-Man Funeral

Fifteen Players on Injured List with Cloudbusters Coming Up

By FRED STABLEY
BAINBRIDGE, Md., Nov. 2 (AP)—The No. 13 jinx hung heavy over the undefeated griders from Bainbridge naval training center today as they prepared to make their major bid for national football recognition against unbeaten North Carolina pre-flight Sunday at Chapel Hill, N. C.

A victory over the Cloudbusters would be their thirteenth in a row—a streak unbroken since inauguration of pigskin business at Bainbridge last year—and almost certainly would land them for the first time in a coveted spot among the nation's top ten teams.

Smaller wonder then that Head Coach Joe Maniaci looked like a one-man funeral when he surveyed a fifteen-man injured list including his top running star, Charley Justice.

Justice, the 19-year-old ex-high school player from Asheville, N. C., who has registered eight touchdowns in five games this year, was severely shaken in the Maxwell field game last week but probably will face pre-flight.

Other backs in various states of decrepitude included Joe Jane (Penn.) Don Durian (Oregon State), Hillard Cheatham (Auburn), Dewey Proctor (Purdue and Great Lakes) and Jackie Field (Texas), practically all of the first two strings.

Proctor and Field are definitely out of the pre-flight game, while Cheatham, the team's best passer, has been unable to flip a football for three weeks because of a shoulder injury.

Centers Lou Sogamon (South Carolina) and Buddy Gatewood (Baylor and Tulane), End Carl Tomassello (Scranton) and Guard Len Akin (Baylor and Chicago Bears) are others with the miseries.

Even so, Maniaci and his "T"-minded behemoths mean to give the Cloudbusters an afternoon calculated to take their minds off their victories over Duke, Navy, Georgia pre-flight, Jacksonville Flyers and Cherry Point marines.

And about the No. 13 jinx—there's also thirteen letters in the name Joseph Maniaci, and the old Fordham and Chicago Bears ace has never been noticeably unlucky.

Middies Will Be Near Peak Shape For Irish Battle

Hamberg Is Only Casualty; Coach To Stand Pat on Backfield

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 2 (AP)—Cmdr. Oscar E. Hagberg, Navy coach, announced late today that he would stand pat on the starting backfield which opened against the University of Pennsylvania last Saturday when the Tars face Notre Dame in Baltimore stadium Saturday.

Dick Duden will operate at quarterback with Bill Barron and Bob Jenkins handling the halfback posts and Clyde Scott running at fullback.

The Middle said, he said, is in peak shape with the exception of Hal Hamberg, who is nursing a twisted leg muscle. He said Hamberg was not expected to be ready to play against the Irish.

The Navy-Notre Dame game, the eighteenth in the series between the schools, will begin at 2 p. m. before a sellout crowd of 63,000 fans.

The entire regiment of midshipmen is scheduled to attend the fray. All of Navy's practice this week has dealt with defense against the fast breaking "T" formation used by Coach Ed McKeever, of the Fighting Irish, but Hagberg has some plans of his own for a rapid fire passing and running attack built around Jenkins, Ralph Ellsworth, Bruce Smith and Scott.

Scott, a plebe at the academy, was labeled the star of the Penn-Navy game last weekend by Hagberg who described him as a "natural athlete."

Hagberg has every respect for the Notre Dame team which he describes as "fast, rugged and clever." Since the Irish-Tar series began in 1927, Notre Dame has played in an unbroken series with both Army and Navy. Of the seventeen games played by each, Army has defeated the South Bend, Ind., eleven times, with a 6-6 tie in 1935.

Navy has defeated Notre Dame three times with no ties. After Saturday's game, approximately 612,000 spectators will have witnessed Navy-Notre Dame games in Baltimore, including the sellout crowd for this year's meeting. The 1944 game will be the tenth meeting of the teams in Baltimore.

National Firms Asked To Raise $4,250 for Fund

Committee Makes Plans for War Fund and Chest Drive

The national firms division of the campaign organization of the National War Fund in Allegheny county and the Cumberland Community Chest has accepted a goal of $4,250 for this year's drive, an increase of $1,000 over the division's quota last year, campaign officials said yesterday.

Announcement of the goal came after a meeting of the division chairman, Joseph V. Tuk, manager of the G. C. Murphy Company store, and his assistants, James A. Leader, of G. R. Kinney Company, Inc., Miss Sheila McDonald, of the Dairy Shop, Bradley S. Kenna, of Montgomery Ward, and G. A. Rehbeck, of Woolworth's.

Will Send Letter Campaign leaders said there are sixty-one national firms operating in Cumberland, and that the division committee has prepared a special letter which will be sent to local managers with a pledge card enclosed.

Contribution records of past years were reviewed, drive officials said, "thoughtfully and carefully in an effort to make a fair and reasonable estimate, as moderate as possible in view of the campaign goal of the amount that may be justly requested of each firm."

Last year on a goal of $3,250, national firms gave $3,260. This year, in view of the approximately $2,000 increase needed from Cumberland for the National War Fund and a full year's support for the Community Chest, national firms accepted the goal of $4,250.

Reasonable Amount Tuk stated that he hopes the division will exceed this year's quota and added that he feels it is a reasonable amount to come from the national firms in the city.

Each member of the division committee, leaders said, has made himself responsible for contact with one or two national firm managers in carrying through the solicitation of the firms.

A series of conferences will be held in the next three weeks to report progress and to discuss problems that may arise.

McMullen Favors Security for All

Democratic Candidate Calls for Extension of Social Benefits

The broadening of the scope of present Social Security legislation by reducing the age limit to sixty years, increasing benefits and inclusion of persons not now protected by Social Security, was advocated by Daniel P. McMullen, Democratic candidate for Congress in the Sixth Maryland district, at a meeting of ward and precinct workers of the Democratic party held last evening in the Democratic Cosmopolitan club, North Mechanic street.

Favors Lower Age Limit Declaring that insurance statistics reveal the average life expectancy as sixty-five years, McMullen asserted that the lowering of the age limit to sixty years would entitle most persons to at least five years retirement benefits.

McMullen also said he believed present payments inadequate and favored increased benefits and broadening of the base to include workers not now covered by Social Security.

The issues of the campaign were discussed by Oliver J. Bruce, Jr., chairman of the Allegheny County Democratic State Central Committee.

Stresses Party Organization The importance of party organization and called upon the party workers to "get out the vote" in the coming election.

The successful prosecution of the war toward a lasting and honorable peace, Bruce declared, is the prime objective of all Democrats.

Polling lists, instructions to party workers and all-important gasoline ration tickets were distributed to the 300-odd party workers who attended the rally.

Each member of the division committee, leaders said, has made himself responsible for contact with one or two national firm managers in carrying through the solicitation of the firms.

A series of conferences will be held in the next three weeks to report progress and to discuss problems that may arise.

GETS BRONZE STAR—Lt. Com. Mary Heck, Cumberland native and the first navy woman to set foot in England, has been presented the Bronze Star medal by Admiral Harold R. Stark, commander of naval forces in Europe, for meritorious service as officer in charge of a contingent of navy nurses in England, the first to serve in that country.

Admiral Harold R. Stark, commander of naval forces in Europe, presented the award to her before she left England on an unspecified assignment after being there since January as head nurse of the hospital where wounded men from Normandy were first taken after reaching the English coast.

Trained at Western Maryland A daughter of the late John W. and Sarah E. Heck, Lt. Com. Heck attended Allegheny County high school and then entered the school of nursing at Western Maryland hospital.

Soon after her graduation, she entered the navy nurse corps for service in the First World War but the Armistice was signed before she was sent overseas and her First World War record ended in the naval hospital at Pelham Bay, N. Y.

Since then, however, Lt. Com. Heck's duties include service in England, the Philippines, Nicaragua, Panama, China and Japan as well as in many naval hospitals on both the East and West coasts of the United States.

Before being picked from a group of six navy nurses to head the contingent of 100 nurses going to England, Lt. Com. Heck served fifteen months as chief nurse at the hospital of the Great Lakes naval training station. Prior to that she was head nurse at the naval hospital at Portsmouth, Va.

First in History On February 8 this year, Stark and Stripes, service newspapers, carried a story announcing the arrival in England of Lt. Com. Heck and the 100 nurses she commanded. A letter from Lt. Com. Heck to her sister, Mrs. Garrett, told of the welcome she received as the "first navy woman in history to set foot here."

Shortly after her arrival, the hospital was opened and Lt. Com. Heck assumed her duties as chief of all navy nursing activities in the European theater.

Recently, Lorette Hearst, special correspondent of the New York Journal-American, visited the English hospital and the story she wrote described Lt. Com. Heck as "a woman with a soft voice, understanding blue eyes and the kindest heart."

Never Too Busy "She is never too busy," the correspondent wrote, "to make a personal case out of every boy who comes into the hospital. She took me all over the wards and the operating rooms, and I was able to see how everyone's face lighted up when she walked past their beds. She knows all of their names and all about what happened to them and about their families and homes."

Besides Mrs. Garrett, Lt. Com. Heck has another sister, Mrs. F. C. Elder, Baltimore, and a brother, Frank L. Heck, McKeesport, Pa.

"FOR HEAVEN'S SAKE" ONE ACT PLAY, GIVEN AT FORT HILL HIGH

"For Heaven's Sake" a one act play, was presented at the Fort Hill high school assembly yesterday by members of an eighth grade class under the direction of Miss Helen Smith.

The play depicted Adolf Hitler in Heaven and consequent reasons for purchasing war bonds and stamps.

County Students Are Eligible for Army Specialized Program

Nearly 100 students in Allegheny county high schools are eligible for the army specialized training program, according to a recent check made by Tech. Sgt. Clarence Biehn, local army recruiter.

Sgt. Biehn said that all students who wish to enroll in the program, which sends them to college for certain periods, must be high school graduates and not more than 17 years and nine months old the month in which college training begins. The last ASTRP class will begin March 7, 1945.

Fourteen students are now eligible in Garrett county. In the counties of Hampshire, Mineral, Pendleton, Grant and Hardy in West Virginia, only fifteen youths can qualify. Sgt. Biehn said. He explained that in the rural sections of West Virginia the average at graduation is 18 years, thus nullifying many applications.

Students in the ASTRP will receive two or three-month terms of training, consisting of college courses, basic military training and physical training. Upon reaching their eighteenth birthday, unassigned enlisted reserve corps students will be sent to a reception center for classification, and air corps enlisted reservists will be sent to an army air force base for air combat crew training, the recruiter said.

Sgt. Biehn expects to complete his survey of the high schools in fourteen counties of Maryland, West Virginia and Virginia by the middle of December, after which he will submit his report to Third Service Command headquarters in Baltimore.

Local Navy Nurse Gets Bronze Star Medal in England

Lt. Com. Mary Heck, of the navy nurse corps, has won another honor.

The Cumberland native and sister of Mrs. William Garrett, 711 Montgomery avenue, has been presented the Bronze Star medal for meritorious service as officer in charge of a contingent of navy nurses in England, the first to serve in that country.

Admiral Harold R. Stark, commander of naval forces in Europe, presented the award to her before she left England on an unspecified assignment after being there since January as head nurse of the hospital where wounded men from Normandy were first taken after reaching the English coast.

Trained at Western Maryland A daughter of the late John W. and Sarah E. Heck, Lt. Com. Heck attended Allegheny County high school and then entered the school of nursing at Western Maryland hospital.

Soon after her graduation, she entered the navy nurse corps for service in the First World War but the Armistice was signed before she was sent overseas and her First World War record ended in the naval hospital at Pelham Bay, N. Y.

Since then, however, Lt. Com. Heck's duties include service in England, the Philippines, Nicaragua, Panama, China and Japan as well as in many naval hospitals on both the East and West coasts of the United States.

Before being picked from a group of six navy nurses to head the contingent of 100 nurses going to England, Lt. Com. Heck served fifteen months as chief nurse at the hospital of the Great Lakes naval training station. Prior to that she was head nurse at the naval hospital at Portsmouth, Va.

First in History On February 8 this year, Stark and Stripes, service newspapers, carried a story announcing the arrival in England of Lt. Com. Heck and the 100 nurses she commanded. A letter from Lt. Com. Heck to her sister, Mrs. Garrett, told of the welcome she received as the "first navy woman in history to set foot here."

Shortly after her arrival, the hospital was opened and Lt. Com. Heck assumed her duties as chief of all navy nursing activities in the European theater.

Recently, Lorette Hearst, special correspondent of the New York Journal-American, visited the English hospital and the story she wrote described Lt. Com. Heck as "a woman with a soft voice, understanding blue eyes and the kindest heart."

Never Too Busy "She is never too busy," the correspondent wrote, "to make a personal case out of every boy who comes into the hospital. She took me all over the wards and the operating rooms, and I was able to see how everyone's face lighted up when she walked past their beds. She knows all of their names and all about what happened to them and about their families and homes."

Besides Mrs. Garrett, Lt. Com. Heck has another sister, Mrs. F. C. Elder, Baltimore, and a brother, Frank L. Heck, McKeesport, Pa.

Local Realtors Reaffiliate with National Group

Board Rejoins NAREB after Operating Independently 15 Years

By action of the membership at a meeting held Tuesday at the Central YMCA, the Cumberland Real Estate Board resumed active membership in the National Association of Real Estate Boards after a lapse of fifteen years' operation as an independent association.

In view of the great interest in postwar public projects involving real estate and construction industries, the broad influence and experience of the NAREB will lend a valuable service to local interests in planning local civic improvements as well as keeping local realtors abreast of latest developments in home building.

The National Association of Real Estate Boards comprises member boards representing all states in the union. The ethics of the NAREB have wielded a strong influence in the real estate business for years and the exclusive name of a local board having membership in the National Association of Real Estate Boards, an organization incorporated in the United States, is a mark of its affiliation.

Only members of an affiliated real estate board are privileged to use the title realtor, which is defined in the standard dictionary as "a real estate broker who is a member of a local board having membership in the National Association of Real Estate Boards, an organization incorporated in the United States, is a mark of its affiliation."
